

I believe that you owe the American public portability for cell phone numbers. It would promote competition for service and ensure that all cell phone companies had an incentive to provide good customer service. If they can offer all the other technological services, they can comply with portability.